HIS MEMORY DEAR TO EVERY AMERICAN.

PATRIOTIC CELEFFATIONS THROUGHOUT THE DAY SET APART IN HIS HONOR-HELP. FUL LESSONS FOR THE RIS-

ING GENERATION. Throughout the length and breadth of this town, in adjoining cities and villages, and all over the entire Union there was a grand demonstration yesterday in honor of George Wash-Washington has the day been observed with such a general display of love for the man who helped to make this country what it is. From the reports of anniversity exercises, dinners and all kinds of demonstrations which are printed in The Tribune it will be seen that there was a revival of the time-honored custom of celebrating the birthday of the hero who saved the country from the power of English greed.

This city, which always makes such a patriotic display on all occasions of public holidays, outdid itself yesterday in the matter of celebration, and from the rising to the setting of the sun something was taking place in almost every part of the city to attest the love of the citizens for George Washington. The day itself was fair and cold, and the beautiful sunshine and the exhilarating winter air brought every one outside, and all the day the streets and parks were crowded with rejoicing citizens. There was hardly a building of any size in town which did not float the Stars and Stripes. The dwellings of the rich and poor were decorated with bunting, and on all the public buildings and on the massive office structures "Old Glory" waved proudly to the winter's wind. The town was clad In holiday attire, most business houses were blosed and the wondering foreigner who happened to be about made exclamations of surprise at the way the New World did honor to her hero. Nothing was left undone which would add to the success of the day, and far into the night around festive boards the happly people offered up their praise and thanksgiving to the memory of General Washington.

At early dawn, when the sun first awoke on the western world, the Stars and Stripes were raised in Battery Park, as has been the custom for many years, and a great-grandson of a Revolutionary here had the honor of sending the flag Christopher R. Forbes, a great-grandson of Sergeant Van Ardsdale, was the man, and he was assisted by the Anderson Zouaves, of the 82d Regiment of New-York Volunteers. While the flag was being raised great enthusiasm prevailed, and cheer after cheer was given for th Father of Our Country. Then up in Central Park, at old Block House, Judson Kilpatrick Post, G. A. R., assembled shortly after 6 o'clock, and just as the sun made his appearance over the eastern horizon comrades of the post sent the flag to the peak of the high staff at the fort. As the banner unfurled to the morning breeze a salute was fired and the fife and drum corps played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the notes of the fife and the rattle of the drum were carried far and wide.

A large number of small parades took place in the course of the day, and all the uptown streets resounded with martial music and the popular airs of the day. In the afternoon everybody was out on the streets, and in the evening the day closed with many dinners and receptions. An interesting feature connected with the celebrations, not only in this city, but throughout the whole United States, was the celebration school children, and the admiration expressed by the children in this city of the copies of Stuart's painting of Washington which have been presented to the different schools in New-York. The presentation of these pictures at this time brings to the young Americans the lesson of patriotism which they need to learn and which they can more faithfully carry out when looking at the masterly work which represents the man of bonor and truthfulness.

The Colonial Club celebrated the day by a dinner at the clubhouse, where eminent speakers dinner at the ciubhouse, where eminent speakers told of the good man Washington. The Vosburgh Veterans, of the 71st Regiment, held a reception in the evening at No. 160 East Fifty-fifth-st., and a housewarming was given by the Phoenix Republican Club at No. 61 East Eighty-sixth-st. The American Museum of Natural History was open all day, and in the afternoon Professor Albert S. Bickmore delivered a free lecture. The 8th Battalion held a reception in the armory The 8th Battalion held a reception in the armory at Park-ave, and Ninety-fourth-st., and the Young Men's Christian Association held an exhibition of books on fine arts in the Young Men's Christian Association Building in Twenty-third-st. The Society of the 1st New-York Mounted Rifles held its reunion and dinner at No. 6 Park and the Southern Society gave a big dir

The patriotic Sons of the Revolution held a service in commemoration of Washington's Birthday in the Brick Presbyterian Church in the afternoon, and in the evening they had a dinner at Delmortes's the Maddeen Council Programmer. mon, and in the evening they had a dinner at Delmonico's. In the Madison Avenue Reformed Church there was a rally in behalf of American Ideals under the auspices of the New-York City Local Union of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, and patriotic exercises were held in the morning in the Workingmen's School of the United Relief Works of the Society for Ethical Culture. The Timothy D. Sullivan Association celebrated the day at Sulzer's Harlem Park. A patriotic demonstration was given at the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, in West Sixty-eighth-st., in the evening, and more than 300 school children took part in a programme of music, songs and tableaus. One of the tableaus represented different epochs in American history.

represented different epochs in American history, in which eleven children took part.

At the Navy Yard in Brooklyn a salute of At the Navy Yard in Brooklyn a salute of twenty-one guns was fired at noon from the battery of the Columbia, and in other places in that city the day was patriotically observed. The feature of the day in Brooklyn was the parade of the Kings County Volunteer Firemen's Association, in which the New-York fire volunteers took part. Besides all these celebrations, there were numerous other minor ones, and the whole town was alive with all kinds of amusement for the people.

The Dog Show was crowded all the day, and the theatres were jammed, and if George Washington had been able to arise from the sleep of death he would have been more than pleased and satisfied would have been more than pleased and satisfied at the way that his name, his deeds and his memory were honored. Of late some lovers of the great Napoleon have endeavored to make this an especial time for bringing into prominence his life and work, but yesterday Napoleon was forgotten and Washington ruled supreme. Reports from the various cities and towns throughout the country all spoke of interesting patriotic celebrations, and the American who is proud of his country and his home and of his revolutionary hero, may rest asthe American who is proud of his country and an home and of his revolutionary hero, may rest as-sured that the Union understands more than ever the nature of the man who brought this country from chaos into order, and that as long as the earth shall last the praises of Washington's name will be sung from every fireside in this land of liberty and patriotism.

WILSON'S ZOUAVES VETERANS MEET. The few remaining members of the 6th New-York Volunteers, known as Wilson's Zouaves, celebrated Washington's Birthday with a social meeting and a supper last night at No. 70 East Fourth-st. There were only about a score of persons present. William McHenry presided.

Wilson's Zouaves organized in 1861, and were sworn into the State service on April 25, 1861, on Staten Island. They served in Fiorida and Louislana during the war for the Union, and were with General Banks at Fort Hudson and the first Red River expedition.

THE DAY IN BROOKLYN.

The leading feature of the celebration of Washing ton's Birthday in Brooklyn was the parade of nearly 3.000 volunteer firemen under the direction of the Volunteer Firemen's Association. Munson S. Brown was grand marshal, and the rendezvous was in Liv-ingston-st., just in the rear of the Courthouse, where the headquarters of the association are. Everything was gay with bunting at that point. At 10 o'clock the parade started, and the march led through the following streets: Henry-st. to Remsen, to and across City Hall Park, passing in review before the Mayor and city officials, to Fulton-st., to Myrtle ave., to Jay-st. (paying a marching salute to Fire Commissioner Wurster and his staff at Fire Headquarters), to Boerum Place, to Livingston-st., to charge of the programme. Speeches were made by Charities Commissioners Burtls and Henry, John A. Quintard and Warden Hayes.

The whole battalion was drawn up in line and re-viewed by Brigadier-General Fitzserald. During the evening the prizes were given to certain members of the regiment for the best average at Creedmoor. Companies B and D received medals.

THE LAWSON FLAG BILL SIGNED. Albany, Feb. 22.-Governor Morton to-day ap proved Assemblyman Lawson's bill to prevent the display of foreign flags upon public buildings in the State. It was the first bill introduced at this session of the Legislature in the Assembly.

Patrick Egan, ex-president of the Irish National League of America and late Minister to Chili, said yesterday on the subject of the Lawson Flag bill hat has just passed the State Senate: no one will doubt my love for the green flag with the crownless harp any more than my devotithe glorious Stars and Stripes, and therefore I propose to speak with perfect candor on this question. I entirely concur in the sentiment expressed by my friend. Senator O'Connor, who is himself a sound irish Nationalist, as well as a good American, that it is a very good thing that the bill has passed. The hoisting of any foreign flag is, in any case, only a matter of courtesy, and when a courtesy has to be fought for, as has been the case for some years back in reference to the Irish flag, it loses that spontaneous character which gives to it also of its value and all of its grace. For my part, I do not desire to see the emblem of the nation and the cause that must be ever dear to me dragged through the mire of a factional wrangle."

CELEBRATIONS IN PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, Feb. 22.-Ceremonies of a more extended character than have been known for years marked to-day's celebration in this city of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Exer cises were held at the Academy of Music this morncountermarched and dismissed.

"One Flag" was the motto of the council at its morning session, and the Committee on Patriadic Instruction had charge of the programme. The first business was the reading of the report of the committee by Mrs. Kate Browniee Sherwood, of Onio, its chairman. "Patriotism as an Element in Government" was the first general topic for discussion, and it was divided into three parts. Mrs. Sherwood read a paper on patriotism in founding and preserving free institutions; Miss Frances E. Wilsard told of it as a factor in the advancement of women, and Mrs. Ellen S. Mussey, of Washington, read a paper on what the flag has cost woman. The second general topic, "Tatriota Teaching as an Element in School Government," was also sub-divided, and papers were read by Louise R. Robbins, of Michigan, on its effect in forming the character of American citizens, and by Isabella C. Pavis, of New-York, on its expression in the New-York free kindergartens. The most interesting affair of the session came next in the readition of "The Balch Salute," apatriotic drill, iliustrated by seventeen little girls under Sarah C. Mink, of New-York, who explained its purpose. Eliza D. Keith, of California, led the discussion on patriotism which followed.

A Martha Washington tea was given by the Woman's National Press Association, and a Japanese tea at the bouse of Miss Clara Barton by the Legion of Loyal Women of American Liberty and the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, addressed the National Cauncil of Women at Responsible for discussion. The following papers were read: "The Degree to Which Governments, Archent and Modern, Have Availed Themselves of the Patriotic Services of Women." by Mrs. Samuel L. A recitation by Mrs. Whitonston of an original ode to "Woman" was followed by patriotic songs and music, after which the session adjourned until to-morrow.

THIS FLAG FLEW OUT OF SIGHT.

Early yesterday John Williams, the janitor of the torn Exchange Bank Building, at Beaver and Will iam sts., hoisted the bank's new flag in hor the day. A strong wind was blowing, and before noon the flag, which measured 29 by 30 feet, was blown out of the halyards and out of sight entirely. At 7 o'clock last night no trace of the missing flag had been discovered.

A MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED. Baltimore, Feb. 22.-Washington's Birthday was observed by a partial suspension of business and by a number of special celebrations. AN INTERESTING LECTURE BY DR. STORRS ON THE CAREERS OF DR. CUTLER, DR. WHIT-MAN AND ELEAZER WHEELOCK

The Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, of Brooklyn The Rev Dr Richard S Sorts, at Brooklyn, delitered an address on "Some Unrecognized Builders of the Nation," that delighted the audi-ence completely filling the Young Men's Chris-tion Association Hall, in Brooklyn, last night The address dealt with the biography of three men-Dr. Manassa Cutler, Dr. Marcus Whitman and Eleazer Wheelock. The first, he said, was chiefly responsible for the creation of the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin; the second, for the States of Oregon and Washington, and the third was the founder of Partmouth College.

Judge Van Cott presided at the meeting. The au-Hence took most delight, to judge from the frequent applause, in the speaker's masterly narrative of the career of Dr. Cutler, who conceived the idea of relieving the struggling United States Government from part of its financial embarrassment by buying public lands in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. He said that when the Continental Army disbanded, the country was saddled with a debt of $70,000,000, payable n specie, and that the issuance of paper m had been carried to such an extent that the ratio in Virginia was 1,000 of paper to 1 of specie. The only thing left for the country was the sale of Western lands. It was at this juncture, in 1786, that or Cutier, a Congregational parson, came forward with his scheme. He applied to Congress, and despite the fact that his plans precluded the possibility of the existence of slavery in the new orthwest, even Southern Congressmen were profoundly impressed with his ability and character, and gave him the necessary grant, which consisted of 3,000,000 acres. One and one-half million went to the Ohio Company formed in Bos ton, and the rest of the Sciota Company. A pioneer colony settled Marietta in April, 1788. specially interested the thinker of to-day, the Doctor added, was the foresight of Dr. Cutler in specially interested the thinker of to-day, the Doctor added, was the foresight of Dr. Cutter in providing for the preservation and propagation of every American liberty. His scheme was so vast and was presented with such power to Congress, the speaker said, that objection vanished before it. Pichard Henry Lee wrote to Washington two days afterward that what politicians could not accomplish in years of legislation, Dr. Cutter, single-handed, accomplished by the force of his ability and character. The beneficent effect of Dr. Cutter's work had been felt from that day till this. The States repaid the United States for conferring Statehood upon them by contributing nearly 1,000,000 soldiers, and Generals Grant and Sherman, besides presidents, chief justices and statesmen to the Republic.

Dr. Marcus Whitman, who was commissioned as a missionary and a teacher to the Indians on the Columbian River in Oregon, next received eulogy from the speaker. The early history of Oregon was sketched; its joint occupancy by the United States and Great Britain; its wonderful resources, etc. In speaking of the Hudson Bay Company. Dr. Storrs paid a kindly tribute to John Jacob Astor. His narrative of Dr. Whitman's wagon journey, accompanied by his wife, overland from St. Louis across the Rockies to the wilds of Oregon, was romantic and beautiful. He told of the ridicule heaped upon the claims of this pioneer missionary by Senators and Congressmen, quotations from their speeches creating great merriment on the part of the audience. He told of the massacre of 1847 of Dr. Whitman and his family, and the carrying into captivity of Whitman's friends and neighbors, and declared that Whitman College, now flourishing in the Walla Walla Valley, was the best monument to the memory of these men may be in us; that we may share not their fame, but their moral power. He said that the great things wrought for the United States had been done by plain and inconspicuous men.

At the end of his address he was enthusiastically applauded, and Dr. Charle

ATTEMPT TO FORM AN ALLIANCE BETWEEN THE TWO ORGANIZATIONS-MEETINGS TO-DAY.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the In ee from the Amateur Athletic Union was held in two forces met at the suggestion of the A. A. U. to see if it was possible to make an alliance between the two organizations for the general good of athwhich will be followed at the annual meeting the Intercollegiate Association, which will be held at the hotel this afternoon.

Those present last night were G. Crompton, Harvard, proxy for M. M. Wheelwright; F. H. Kendrick, of the University of Pennsylvania, representing H. A. Mackey; G. K. B. Wade, of Yale; E. A. Rundquest, of the College of the City of New-York; F. M. Crossett, of New-York City University, and L. C. Boker, of Union College. The Amateur Athletic Union was represented by W. B. Curtis, the president; Julius Harder, of the Turner Bund; A. G. Mills, the athlet'c arbitrator, and Julian W. Curtiss in place of C. F. Mathewson.

A. G. Mills, who has made a record as a sporting arbitrator in baseball, as well as in athletic matters resented the case to the college boys in well-chosen words. He showed that an alliance between the associations built upon the same lines as the present agreement between the Amateur Athletic and the League of American Wheelmen, and the Amateur Athletic Union and the Turner Bund

A letter was o received from the League of American Wheel-n suggesting an alliance and pointing out the selfs to be derived from such an alliance. A. G. is and the other members of the Amateur Ath-c Union committee were invited to meet the ege men in general conference at 5 o'clock this ernoon.

The college representatives were good listeners to the suggestions offered by the veterans, but they had little to say, and not one could be induced to give a positive opinion as to what he thought would be the outcome of the conference last night. They said that the object of the conference was the unification of amateur sports. The college men prepared a schedule which will be followed at the annual convention. The schedule embodies many interesting points in college athletics. Nothing could be agreed upon last night, as the present Executive Committee goes out of power to-day.

NEW YORK STATE CLUB'S HOUSEWARMING. The New-York State Club was formally opened yesterday with a pleasant housewarming. The say the members, was only recently organized, but it has already a membership of over 400 vigorous Democratic anti-Tammany fighters. Its home is in a handsome three-story brownstone front house at No. 170 East Ninety-fifth-st. The quarters are commodious, and as soon as the threes of organization are over they will be comfortably furnished.

The officers of the club are: President, Maurice A.O'Connell; vice-presidents, Simon J. Stroh, James F. Scully and Robert Lyon; treasurer, John Barry; financial secretary, William J. Fawcett; corresponding secretary, William J. Fawcett; corresponding secretary, C. C. Wahrenholz; recording secretary, Isidor Bernstein, and chairman of the Board of Managers, John A. Henneberry

The reception of the club to its friends took place between 4 and 10 p. m. The afternoon was devoted to a reception, during which the guests inspected the clubhouse from top to bottom with interest.

In the evening the festivities were continued and a number of great and lesser lights of the Grace Democracy were on hand to take part in the speechmaking and general congratulations. John A. Henneberry presided.

The special toasts were "Washington's Farewell Address to the Army," Nestor A. Alexander; Washington, the Patriot." Robert A. Lyon; "Washington and Lafayette," Edward J. Kiely, and "Patriotism," William R. Grace. are over they will be comfortably furnished.

self. What mystery, if any, lay behind this tragic taking off is probably buried with him. The note which he left for relatives has been forwarded to which he left for relatives has been forwarded to them unopened. A priest of the Greek Church came on from New-York, and conducted at the home of the dead man the simple services which under the circumstances, were all that could possibly be done in the way of religious ceremony. Prince Cantacusenc, the Ru-sian Minister, all the members of the Russian Legition, and many other diplomats attended the services, but only a few personal friends followed the body to the grave.

MISS ANNA GOULD'S WEDDING.

HER MARRIAGE TO THE COUNT DE CASTELLAND TO TAKE PLACE MARCH 4.

Invitations were sent out yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould for the marriage of Miss Anna Gould to Count de Castellane. The ceremony will take place at noon, on Monday, March 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gould, No. 871 Fifth-ave. The marriage ceremony will probably be performed by Archbishop Corrigan, and there will be present at the service only the relatives and very intimate friends of the couple. A small reception and a breakfast will follow. The breakfast, as at present arranged, is to be a buffet affair. Miss Gould will be attired in a gown of white satin, and its trimmings will be of point lace and of the rarest kind. Her bridesmaids, Miss Kittle Cameron, Miss Helen Gould, her sister; Miss Addie Montgomery and Miss Beatrice Richardson, will be in costumes of white cloth, trimmed with sable and small back hats, dressed with rock roses, Howard Gould, Charles Raoul-Duval, an intimate friend of the Count, and Prince Del Drago may serve as ushers. The Marquis de Castellane is ex-pected to arrive from France this week.

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

The theatres did a better business yesterday than they have done before in many weeks. In the afternoon the performances were all well attended, and in the evening people were turned away from nearly every theatre in town. The managers all hold the name of Washington in high reverence. Beerbohm Tree will end his engagement at Abbey's Theatre to-day, playing "Hamlet" in the afternoon and "Captain Swift" and scenes from "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in the evening. Miss Queenle Vassar will leave Edward Harrigan's company after to-night, and she will probably also leave the stage, for a time at least,

TAKAMINE PROCESS UNDER CONSIDERATION Chicago, Feb. 22.-Regarding the stoppage of the Takamine process, Receiver McNulta, of the Whiskey Trust, said yesterday: "The statement about the receivers having permanently discontinued or disposed of the Takamine process is premature, final conclusion has been reached by them upon the subject. On the contrary, what disposition is to be made of it is still under consideration, and a matter of negotiation between the receivers and the Takamine Company."
